QMC reaches short-list of Architectural Design Awards

The International Design & Architecture Awards are hosted each year by design et al, a leading UK interior design magazine. The aim of the awards is to commend design, recognize talent, create opportunities and quite simply to offer inspiration.

The annual awards reward the best in interior design and architecture from across the globe. Given the global reach of these awards, and keen competition between entrants, to be short-listed is a considerable accolade.

What sets these awards apart from others, is the fact that they are not judged by a panel. Short listed entries are presented online, and voting is open to industry professionals as well as design et al readers, clients and customers.

QMC has reached the short-list stage, submitting work recently completed for its "Kensington Studio"
